Organisational Change

PIK738-0626 MLS-KL-1

If you can't train them,
you can't blame them!

Short Description:

PROGRAM OVERVIEW The "Leading and Managing Change" training program offers a thorough exploration of the principles and practices essential for navigating organisational change. It is structured to provide participants with both theoretical frameworks and practical strategies that empower them to effectively lead change initiatives. By examining key concepts in change management, participants are equipped with the necessary knowledge to understand the dynamics of change within their organisations. This foundational understanding is critical for leaders who seek to implement successful change processes. In addition to theoretical insights, the program emphasises the importance of managing resistance and fostering a culture of innovation. Participants engage in practical exercises that allow them to apply the skills learned in real-world scenarios, enhancing their ability to address challenges and resistance that may arise during change initiatives. By promoting an innovative organisational culture, leaders can encourage adaptability and continuous improvement, ensuring that their organisations thrive in an ever-evolving landscape.
